Beschreibung: This artwork on cartboard shows an industrial plant out of the 20s situated in a small river harbour. Within this workers atmosphere you find a loving couple on their way to grap soup. The steam of the sooup also reached another couple of the plants administration - overpainted in comic style: an account officer and his secretary: the second coupöle in this painting. This all is bizarre, in its social roles has survived until the early 70ies.
